

QUARTERLY NEWSLETTER Summer 2021

ATTORNEYS STRENGTHENING NONPROFITS

Letter from the Executive Director

This past Sunday marked the official start of summer. I hope that each of you have already had the chance to spend time outside – despite the sound of the deafening 17-year cicadas – and (finally) enjoy time together with your friends, family, and colleagues. It has been such a pleasure to begin seeing some of you person again!

As our community works through its recovery from COVID-19 and we all find our "new normal," PBPO continues to stand up every day to support more than 260 local nonprofits that are still facing a myriad of pandemic related legal challenges like lease re-negotiations, guidelines on return to work, the COVID-19 vaccine, and more. In fact, we gained five new clients in the past week alone, and we are on pace to serve nearly 1.5x the number of clients than we did in all of 2020.

We also cannot forget all the work we did last year to strengthen nonprofits in our community. This issue of our quarterly newsletter includes our 2020 Annual Report – I hope you enjoy reading it!

Finally, I'm thrilled to introduce to you the newest member of our team: Erin Starkey, PBPO Staff Attorney. Learn about her role and volunteer experience in our nonprofit community below.

On behalf of our entire team, thank you for your championship of our mission. We are continually grateful for your support.

Erin Childs, Executive Director

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Bill Flynn, Strauss Troy

It was an easy decision to award Bill Flynn last year's Excellence in Nonprofit Service award because of his significant work with 1N5. In the words of Nancy Eigel-Miller, Executive Director of 1N5, "Bill has been a true gift to our organization. Specifically, he helped strengthen our operations with counseling on employment matters, corporate governance, and more. So when I say he went above and beyond—he went above and beyond." Bill is a shareholder at Strauss Troy, specializes in business law, business litigation, and financial services matters, and, through one of his many areas of volunteer service, has been designated the "the Voice of Mariemont."

Why does Bill volunteer with PBPO?

"I was finally motivated to get off of the sidelines when I saw that Nancy Eigel-Miller had signed up for some work for the 1N5 organization, which she founded after her husband Jim died of suicide, all while she still had two children to focus on. I knew the family from crossing paths in school and sports and actually coached a few soccer seasons with Jim — so I felt pretty strongly that someone was calling me to not be a bystander... What I could contribute pales in comparison (to the work of 1N5) — and my eyes were opened to how many other Nancys there are out there doing amazing work for people in our communities."

PBPO SUPPORTER FOCUS

Procter & Gamble

PBPO is humbled by the continued partnership of Procter & Gamble (P&G). A true community champion, P&G has been a steadfast supporter of PBPO since our founding. Its championship of our mission goes far – more than 30 P&G employees serve as PBPO volunteers, sharing their time and talent to strengthen local nonprofits.

Susan Whaley, PBPO Vice President and P&G's Senior Vice President and General Counsel, North America, Practice Groups, and Sector Business Units, shares why she believes in the power of PBPO's work: "The reason I love to work for and with Pro Bono Partnership of Ohio is because of its mission, but also because it is an efficient way to get the skills and capabilities of dedicated lawyers to the organizations in our community that need those skills the most, enabling them to deliver high impact services for those people who are most in need."

Thank you, P&G! We are grateful for your generous support.
